Candidates for Didsbury

There was never a provincial election that is causing so much uncertainty as the present contest. The farmers movement has introduced an unknown force into the election as well as the independents. So far there are no less than six different parties who have nominated candidates, as follows:

Government, 24
Lib. Conservatives, 19
United Farmers, 20
Independents, 28
Socialist, 1

A total of 145 candidates for 61 seats. There are 52 ridings.

There is hardly any doubt but that the Liberals will come into power but with a greatly reduced majority.

The Candidates

As far as the Didsbury constituency is concerned there are only two candidates running, G. Webber of Carleton Place the Liberal nominee and on Friday last the U. F. A. held their nomination meeting at Acme and nominated A. E. Chiswood of Swatwell. Messrs Norman Clarke, Didsbury, Dalton, Acme, and McPhee, Dracchell, were also nominated but lost out. Mr. H. B. Atkin, a former member was nominated but declined to be a candidate. A selection was made on the third ballot.

The Standing of the Political Parties

Premier Charles Stewart was returned by acclamation for Sedge-wick, a rural constituency. No other candidate is returned. The government has candidates for 53 out of the 61 seats, the opposition being the United Farmers, the Conservatives, the Socialists, the Independents, and the Liberals. The Farmers are testing public feeling in the election of 11 members. The Conservatives are running full force in Calgary and Edmonton. There are three Liberal Labor candidates in Edmonton and Calgary and one Socialist in each city. The Independent candidates represent great varieties in political opinion and the seven in Calgary under this heading include "one" for wards publisher of the "Free Press". There are 36 rural constituencies where Liberal and Farmer candidates are meeting in straight two-candidate contests. These include the ridings where all of Premier Stewart's cabinet colleagues are seeking election. Hon. J. R. Hughes is running in Sturgeon as well as in Edmonton City. Hon. Duncra Marshall in Olds. Hon. J. L. Cole in Grouard. Hon. A. J. McLean in Taber. Hon. C. B. Mitchell in Bow Valley and Hon. George P. Shultz in Carleton Place. Charles Finlay, speaker in the last house, is opposed by a Farmer in Red Deer, Alberta.

Good News From Ireland

LONDON, July 11.—The two leading developments in the Irish situation today were the designation of next Thursday as the date on which Mr. Lloyd George and Sinn Féin leaders will meet in London to begin conversations looking to a settlement of the Irish question, and the coming into effect at noon of the truce in Ireland as agreed upon.

Met in London Thursday
The official announcement that Mr. de Valera would come to London next Thursday to confer with the prime minister did not specify the place where the actual meeting is to be held. It is understood that the Irish Republican leader will have as colleagues Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Féin, and Professor J. MacNeill, E. J. Duggan and Austin Stack, Sinn Féin members of Parliament.

Mr. Lloyd George's associates at the conference have not been announced. The Irish truce brought back to Dublin much of its old peace

In other parts of Ireland, notably Belfast, where desperate fighting continued yesterday and equipped with clubbed severity this morning the truce was observed a varying degree of peace was apparently being complied with more completely by the crown forces than the Republic. Acts of violence in various parts of the country are reported.

World Events of Great Importance Pending

LONDON, July 11.—By Graham W. Leary, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent. The world is on the eve of one of the most epochal events in history. This is the universal verdict of the newspaper and statement here following President Harding's offer, and the British government's acceptance in connection with the holding of a conference for the discussion of disarmament and peace problems. The scene in the house of commons this afternoon when Premier Lloyd George announced Great Britain's hearty acceptance in the proposal was a memorable one. The British Premier spoke to a crowded chamber, and when he declared that the government welcomed such a move and would do its utmost to make it a success there was a crash of cheering from all quarters, which in the opinion of old journalists, is the proudest gallantry has never been equalled since the announcement of the armistice with Germany. Mr. Lloyd George spoke with an earnestness, worthy of the momentous subject with which he had to deal, and the emphasis which he placed upon the declaration that if the conference failed it would not be because the British empire, while it is present, left no doubt in the minds of the members of the house as to the government's sincerity.

Dawning Street Active
Downing street and the foreign office today with activity through out the day. "The Times" which was the representative of Canada and the strongest advocate in the congress of empire premiers of the step which has been taken, has come to be regarded here as almost an inter-actor of new world sentiment. He had a lengthy conference with Premier Lloyd George in the morning, Lord Curzon, the British foreign secretary, being present. Later on Lord Curzon conferred with the Japanese ambassador. In the afternoon after the British prime minister made his statement to the house of commons, the conference of premiers went into session.

The British press is unanimous in stating that the step taken by President Harding was made possible only by the conference of premiers. It laid the foundation for what had been done and the president of the United States did not make his offer and quite properly until he was certain it would not be refused. As for Canada a triumph of the conference idea marks the complete vindication of her stand. Representatives of other dominions as well as of the mother country believed such a step should be taken but they had little faith in the possibility of its being brought about. Hon. Arthur Meighen, believing that in opposing the Japanese alliance and urging a conference regarding the Pacific problems he was interpreting the sentiment of the Canadian people with-out regard to party, never wavered in his stand. When Lord Birkenhead's opinion that the alliance must remain in force for another year snuffed out the Canadian premier's fight to have the treaty denounced he persisted successfully in his demand for a Pacific conference and it was owing to this that Canadian Press was able to announce nearly two weeks ago that such a gathering would be held.

Meighen's Statement

The London Times tomorrow will carry the following statement from Premier Meighen:

"It was with the greatest satisfaction that I learned of President Harding's notable announcement. To a disinterested world it is now hope and a promise of relief from the uncertainties and apprehensions that have clouded the future. Nowhere will it be welcomed more eagerly than in Canada. It has been the unswerving belief of Canadians that

Waste and Its Effect On Prices

One of the most important problems confronting the people in nearly all countries is how to bring down the costs of production to figures more nearly approximating those which prevailed prior to the war. It is likewise the most difficult problem to solve without creating conditions which would be even more disastrous than the present handicap imposed upon all productive enterprises.

The war created conditions which resulted in a rapid and phenomenal rise in the cost of all raw materials and labor; in fact, of everything entering into the production of goods and articles of every description. The inevitable result was an enormous increase in prices, and while war's demands kept up production to top-notch capacity, with the ending of the war and the re-stocking of the world's supply of necessities, there has come a falling off in demand and consequently production has been reduced, people cannot pay the prices which present costs of production make it imperative to charge. The result is unemployment, and the greater the number of unemployed the lower falls the purchasing power of the country. There must, therefore, be a decrease in the costs of production before there can be any marked improvement in the volume of business and of employment.

It is clear, therefore, that there must be a further readjustment. Prices of raw materials have fallen, but the cost of labor necessary to convert these materials for use continues so high, and the cost of transporting both raw materials and the finished products so excessive, that there is not the activity in evidence which the economic needs of the country and all people demand. And labor very naturally insists that it cannot work for a materially reduced wage until there is a reduction in costs of living.

There is one field, however, in which labor can do much to remedy the present situation and reduce costs of production without being obliged to accept lower wages, and the action which labor should take in the interest of all will not operate to further decrease employment but, on the contrary, the effect must be to increase employment. The action which labor should take is to remove the many restrictions which are arbitrarily imposed by their union regulations and which operate to increase costs of production out of all proportion to the actual work involved in production.

Reference was recently made in this column to the waste of time, labor and money involved in the insistence by printers that type set for one purpose, say an advertisement in a newspaper, must not be used for another purpose, but, for example, in a piece of job printing, but that the same matter must be set up twice. This is pure waste, but the printers insist upon it under the mistaken idea that they are thereby creating more employment. As a matter of fact by unnecessarily increasing costs they are actually curtailing employment.

One of the most serious handicaps to business today is the excessive, very high railway freight rates. These unduly high charges are affecting every line of business and production. These high rates were partly brought about during the war by the high cost of raw materials, but these costs are now substantially lower. Wages, however, are still high. But the most serious item in costs of railway operation are the new regulations imposed by the railway unions which force the employment of three, four and five men to do a piece of work which one man, or a man and a helper, can do just as well and even more expeditiously. The labor of the others is pure waste, for which the public is compelled to pay, and which necessitates excessive freight and passenger rates in order to pay for this waste.

Toll is taken on every bushel of grain raised, every head of livestock shipped, every load of lumber or coal, every item of merchandise handled, to pay for this waste. Nobody escapes from paying for a share of this waste.

The railway employee who fancies he is profiting from enforcing these economically unsound regulations pays just as do other railway employees, union labor everywhere, and the people generally who know they do not benefit in any degree from having men employed in the doing of unnecessary and totally unproductive work.

Dean Swift, in one of his famous satires makes the King of Brobdingnag express the opinion that whoever would make two ears of corn, or two blades of grass to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, deserved better of mankind and did more essential service to his country than the whole race of politicians put together. Unfortunately for the present age, organized labor seems to have become permeated with the idea that the able, proper and statesmanlike course is for a man to produce only one ear of corn or one blade of grass as much as he is capable of producing, and to insist that several men should be employed to do what would be only a reasonable day's work for one.

In next week's article some recent disclosures resulting from an official inquiry will be cited as indicating the direction in which reform must come in order to fight, or at all events improve, existing economic conditions in this and other countries.

Fish Eggs Carried From Hatcheries To Inaccessible Points.

A new use for the seaplane has been found on the Pacific coast by officials of the department of marine and fisheries working in co-operation with the air board officials at the Vancouver seaplane station. It is in carrying fish eggs from the hatcheries to otherwise inaccessible parts of the coast line, where eggs can be placed under water in special boxes invented by one of the fishery officers and allowed to complete hatching there. Patrols are also being undertaken, in connection with the fisheries department officials to circumvent fish poachers who stray into forbidden waters.

Edmonton Woman Now Eats Better and Feels Better Than In Years

"It certainly is wonderful how quickly the right medicine will get a person feeling well again," said Mrs. Edward Fuller, 12436 122nd St., Edmonton, Alberta.

"When I began taking Tanlac I was so weak and run-down I could hardly hold out through the day. Nothing I ate tasted good to me and I just had to force myself to eat enough to keep alive. I had a headache every day and was restless and nervous and slept so poorly that I was worn out and listless when morning came.

"Inside of a month, Tanlac had me feeling like an entirely different person and I am now eating, sleeping and feeling better than I have in years. My headaches and nervousness soon disappeared and my housework, which had been a drudgery before, actually became a pleasure.

"In my opinion there never was a medicine made that is the equal of Tanlac." Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

A Dangerous Place.

An Irishman visiting a friend in hospital began to take an interest in the other patients.

"What are you in here for?" he asked one.

"I've got tonsillitis, and I've got to have my tonsils removed," was the answer.

"And you?" he asked another.

"I've got blood-poisoning in the arm, and they're going to cut it off," was the reply.

"Holy Moses," said Pat in horror. "This is no place for me. I've got a cold in me head!"

Trees For Every Prairie Farm

Of the necessity for trees on the prairie farm it should not be necessary to write. One has only to live a few months on the prairie to know how welcome a shelter is when the wind is blowing. We are glad to see the Chinooks in winter. We look upon them as a special blessing after a spell of thirty below, but they are all the better when you can enjoy the balmy weather they bring behind the shelter of a well arranged belt of trees.

Then there is the dust. In this country, as in other dry countries, the dust, like the poor, is always with us. Tree belts stop a tremendous amount of dust. At least the smother from the neighboring summer fallow never reaches the houses when there is a substantial shelter between them and the west wind.

And Temper and Nerves! There is no telling the difference a few trees make. No wonder some poor women get discouraged and, indeed, almost distracted at times when the wind comes sweeping down, the washing blows away and everything goes wrong at once. Two or three days of steady high wind have an uncanny power to rattle one's nerves; there's no mistake about it.

I never saw so much genuine tree planting interest amongst prairie farmers as this year. In just one district of Southern Alberta this spring, Mr. Roy Walker of Vulcan planted a mile and three quarters of trees on the west of his farm, using 25,000 and a party near Irricana has put in 16,000. Great numbers of farmers to my knowledge are preparing their ground this year for next year's tree planting. These are the beginnings which I believe will develop into a country-wide practice of systematic prairie forestry.

Nor is success limited to the districts of liberal moisture, or the irrigated sections. Just as striking successes have been scored in districts where tree planting appeared hopeless. N. J. Anderson of Barnwell, Alta., gave up the attempt to prepare a dust blanket over his land as a means to preserve moisture and turned for relief to tree planting. He lives in a naturally dry area which next year will have irrigation. He planted 5000 trees of Russian Poplar, ash, maple and willow. It took Mr. Anderson and a helper just four days to complete the job. Not twenty five of the whole number died. After four years, his shelter belt is from ten to twelve feet high. In 1918 and 1919 when there was so little moisture that grain failed to thrive, the trees grew from six to eight feet. To-day, Mr. Anderson is drawing big dividends from his shelter belts in the form of freedom from soil drift, he grows fine crops of vegetables, and leads an incomparably happier life as a farmer. Some settlers say: "I can't spare the time for tree planting." My reply is: "An acre of 1800 trees, planted 1 by 6 feet, is the work of a man and a team for one day. What is three days switched out of the middle of seedling time and tucked on to the end of it? John Smith and Tom Brown with similar fields come out at the end of the season with similar yields, but Smith having taken a couple of days for tree planting has a fine young forest to boot. That is the story in a nutshell. Very few men lack time. And, as seedlings few, if any, localities can offer as a legitimate excuse that they are too dry for trees to thrive.

U. G. G. and Elevator Companies Win Case

The act was ultra vires of the federal government, since it interfered with and invaded property and civil rights. This had been set on foot as a proposition of law and no valid facts had been set forward to support the claim for an invalidation declaration.

The rules of this court of appeal, which required that in any claim for such a declaration, the plaintiff must set up in concrete form, the legal facts to show that not only was the act ultra vires, but that it had been enforced to the injury of the plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs in this case, having failed to carry out this technical rule, the judge was not properly bound by him. He therefore ruled that he was not called upon to pronounce any judicial decision upon the validity or otherwise of the Canada Grain Act. The plaintiffs had made an ingenious attempt to obtain a change of their status from claimants to litigants by the Canada Grain Act and so secure an academic decision invalidating the act, but the royal commission was appointed under the Canada's Empowerment and had nothing to do with it. At all. Concrete facts had been set up in concrete form to show that the Canada Grain Act was invalid.

It is indicated that the government will carry the case to the higher courts. Mr. Justice Curran, remarking that if the higher courts held that the act was valid, it was not entirely further argument on other phases of the case they could refer this single back to him.

Whether the case is carried to the higher courts or not, the possibility cannot proceed while the whole matter is subject to litigation, that may last an indeterminate length of time. The question of costs was reserved until it had been decided whether an appeal would be taken. C. P. Wilson, B.C., representing the minister of justice, immediately following the release of the judgment, stated the decision in Ottawa and asked for instructions.

Following a long conference between counsel and members of the commission this afternoon, the announcement was made at the office of the commission that there was no statement to be given out.

The Homesteaders — BY — ROBERT J. C. STEAD Published By Special Arrangement With the Author.

Harris and his young bride found much to occupy their attention. Their minds were big with plans, nebulous and indefinite, but charged with potentiality, which they should work into effect when they had selected their prairie home. To the young girl, naturally of romantic temperament, the journey of life upon which they had so recently embarked together took on something of the glamour of knightly adventure. Through the rosiest lens of early womanhood the vague undefined difficulties that loomed before her were veiled in a mist of glory as she felt that no sacrifice could really hurt no privation could cut too deep while she was fulfilling her destiny as wife and comrade to the bravest and best of men. The vast prairie heart-breaking in their utter emptiness could only be full to her—full of life, and love, and color full of a largeness too great to be contained. She watched the giant trees rising naked from the white forces, and her mind flitted on a thousand miles in advance, while on the cold window-sill her fingers tapped time to the click of the car wheels underneath.

Harris, too, was busy with his thoughts. He measured the obstacles ahead with the greater precision of the masculine mind. To him, love was not a magician's wand to dissolve his difficulties in thin air, but a quality power which should enable him to surmount them by his path. No matter what stood in the way—what loneliness, what hardship, what disappointment and even disillusionment—he should fight his way out to ultimate victory for the sake of the dear girl at his side. As she watched the winter landscape drearily through the window he shot quick glances at her face; the white brow, the long lashes tempering the light of her deep magnetic eyes, the perfect nose through whose thin walls was diffused the faintest pink against a setting of ivory, lips, closed and tender as in the sleep of a little child, chin, strong but not too strong; and a neck full and beautiful, the whole forming a picture of purity, gentleness, and confidence which set his being aglow with the joy of immeasurable possession. At he thought of her love, her faith, her confidence, he swore in his own big heart that neither harm nor sorrow should come upon her; that through every adversity of life he would be her protector, her champion, her defence. And so in the charm and mirage of their young dream they rode dauntlessly, joyously, into the unknown.

With Ned Beeson, the trusty hired man, in charge of the carload of effects, under the direction of Tom Morrison, Harris was relieved of many duties and responsibilities that would have broken in somewhat rudely on his dream. Traffic was congested with the immigrant movement; cars were side-tracked at countless places for indefinite periods, but stick had to be fed and cared for; bonds had to be provided and all the conditions of departmental red tape complied with when the effective extension of the United States, for in 1882 the All-Canadian railway was a young giant fighting for life with the misadventures of the North Shore route, and railway traffic with the New West was, perforce, held over American roads. These details and a score of others called for patience, for tact, and a judicious distribution of dollar bills. Harris made a mental note of his obligation to Tom Morrison in the matter. He was allowed through the maze of this was the farmer's very practical wedding gift, but he took debit for it nevertheless.

And so the journey was on. As they succeeded day by day the monotonous rattle of the car wheels the immigrants became better acquainted and friendship took root. In a few days were to leave every storm of adversity and bloom forth in the splendid community of spirit and endeavor that was to be the prairie. The strain of travel drew heavily upon physical endurance, and the monotony of the exercise and lack of sleep; these laid their heavy fingers on the strongest and heaviest. For one night the endurance of the prairie was tested. Harris was around that day, and he saw them back on Canadian soil and the lapping spirit of the travellers was revived. Someone struck up an impromptu hymn, men, women and children joined in the chorus, and they caught the words, and rolled it forth with a vigor that vibrated every timber of the car.

"O, Prairie Land, sweet Prairie Land,
Where everyone joins heart and hand!"

They sang, and the cordibility of the party seemed to swell with the volume of the song. A band of human interest, human interdependence—men, women and children of human suffering, was already linking them together with links of steel that would withstand every shock of the coming years, and bind together the foundations of a mighty land.

In the cold grey of a March morning the car had not yet left the rolling hills of night, and the finger winds back from the Red river, the hoarse wind and spectral through the trees, they reached the prairie, and in a few minutes were detaching at Emerson, the boundary town and gateway to the prairie, which for thousand miles stretched into the mysteries of the unknown.

CHAPTER II. Into The Wilderness.

Emerson was the gateway of the invasion. Situated on the Canadian side of the International Boundary, the "farthest west" of all communication, on the threshold of the prairie country, it seemed the strategic point for the great city which must arise with the settlement and development of the fertile kingdom of territory lying between the Lake of the Woods and the Rocky Mountains, and between the Forty-ninth Parallel and the unknown northern limit of agriculture. Sixty miles northward, at the junction of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers, Winnipeg was showing street-travelled out from a main trunk which marked the route the Indians came had followed for years as they bore their buffalo hides and pemmican to the Hudson's Bay Company's post at Fort Garry. Winnipeg was to be on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway—at least to the promoters of its town lot activity affirmed; but Selkirk, still farther north, was already flourishing in the assurance that the railway would cross the river at that point. But the Canadian Pacific Railway, set at a distant auxiliary upon paper, its advance guard were pouring into Selkirk, and the rocks of the Lake Superior fastnesses, and a little band of resource men were fighting financial disaster in an indomitable effort to drive through a project which had dismayed even the Government of Canada. Some there were who said the Canadian Pacific would never be built, and many there were who said that it built it would always be a charge upon the country—that in the very nature of things it could never become self-supporting.

So while Winnipeg and Selkirk indulged their visions Emerson was already enjoining to the full the prosperity which accompanied the influx of settlers. Although the immigrants were not yet wealthy as the term was understood even in an agricultural community, most of them had enough money to pay for their outfitting and place them on their homesteads ready for operation. Accommodation in Emerson was at a premium; hotel space was out of the question, and even the barest rooms commanded minimum prices. These commodities which the settler must needs have had taken their cue from hotel prices, and were quoted at figures that provoked much thoughtful head-scratching on the part of the thrifty and somewhat close-fisted new arrivals from the East.

Harris left his wife with a company of other women in the Government immigration building while he set out to find, if possible, lodgings where she might live until he was ready to take her to the homestead country. He must first make a trip of exploration himself, and as this might require several weeks his present consideration was to place her in proper surroundings before he left. He soon found that all the hotels were full, and had they not been full the prices demanded were so exorbitant as to be beyond his reach; and even had it been otherwise he would have asked her to share the hardships of the exploration trip rather than leave her alone in the hotel section of the town. The parasites and camp-followers of society attracted by the easy money that might be wrung in devious ways from the following line of farmers, were already represented in force, and flaunted brazenly the seamy side of the civilization which was advancing westward.

Turning to parts of the town which were less exposed in business, legitimate, questionable or by all question, Harris inquired at many doors for lodging for himself and wife. He finally obtained a room, the response ranged from curt announcements that the inmates "don't take" boarders to sympathetic assurances that if it were possible to find room for another it would be done, but the house was already crowded to suffocation. Great lines of waiting in the back yards, and groups of dirty children spilling in the prize mud, here testimony to the congestion. The March sun was heating down with astonishing ferocity, and the dusty-walked streets were a veritable shambles. In two hours Harris, notwithstanding his stout frame and his young enthusiasm, drained himself somewhat disconsolately back to the immigration building with the information that his search had been fruitless.

At the door he met Tom Morrison and another, whom he recognized as the teller of Indian stories which had captivated the children of his car. Morrison was a man of forty, with a dash of grey in his hair and a kind twinkle in his shrewd eyes; his companion was a bigger man, of about the same age, whose words of beaten face bore testimony to the years already spent in pioneer life on the prairie.

"And what luck have ye had?" asked Morrison, seizing the young man by the arm. "Little, I'll be thinking, by the smile ye're forcing up. But what an I think of?" Mr. McCrac was from way out in the Wakona county, and an old-timer on the prairie. He knows every corner in the town, I'm thinking."

"We leave our 'mister' east of the Great Lakes. An' Ah'm not from Wakona, unless you give that name to all the country from Pendina Crossing to Turtle Mountain. Ah'm doing business all through there, an' no more partial to one place than another."

"What is your line of business, Mr. McCrac?" asked Harris.

"Aleck, I said, an' Aleck it is." "All right," said the other, laughing. "What is your business, Aleck?" "My business is assisting settlers to get located on suitable land, an' seeing out my own living by the process. There's a strip of country in there, fifty miles long by twenty miles wide, that Ah know like you know your own farm down east. It cost me something to learn it, an' Ah sell the information for part of what it cost. Perhaps Ah can do something for you later, along professional lines. Just now, as Tom here tells me, you're hunting a house for the wife. Ah know Emerson too well to suppose you have found one."

"I haven't, for a fact," said Harris, reminding of the urgency of his mission. "I've tramped round and this morning than would make a good farm in Ontario, but mud is all I got for my trouble."

Making History.

INFANT MORTALITY in past ages has been something frightful, something almost beyond belief, and even today it occupies the time and the mind of leading physicians in all countries. The death rate among infants is being gradually reduced through new methods of hygiene, new preventatives and new remedies for infants. This reduction in the death rate has NOT been accomplished by adapting the precautions taken and remedies used by adults. Rather has it been to keep clear of the old methods, and choose after long research the precautions and remedies specifically applicable to infants.

This being so, it is necessary for us to caution mothers against trying to give her baby relief with a remedy that she would use for herself? Will she remember that Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for infants and children?

Children Cry For

Fletcher's CASTORIA

Of Course You Love Your Baby.

You love it because of its very helplessness, because it can't tell you what is the matter when it feels bad. It can only cry and look to you for help. But the more you love baby, the more you want to help baby, the more you ought to realize what a wonderful remedy Fletcher's Castoria is. It has been used for babies' ailments for over thirty years.

An experienced doctor discovered Fletcher's Castoria especially for babies' use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrup. Doctors who know what is safe and best for babies have all given good to say of it.

Don't neglect your baby. Get a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria and give baby a few doses of it. See how the little one smiles at you as it trying to thank you for helping it. Soon you will learn to depend on Fletcher's Castoria, made just for Infants and Children, and of course you would not think of using anything for them that was not prepared especially for Infants and Children. So keep it in the house.

TOBACCO HEART

Every Smoker Read This

Tobacco does not seem to affect all alike. Many men enjoy their smoking to a good old age, and apparently suffer no ill-effects from the use of the weed.

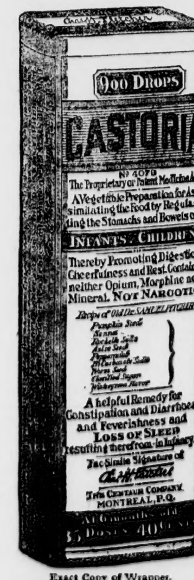

There are others, though, on whose heart and nervous system tobacco produces the most serious results. It causes palpitation, pain in the heart, and irregularity of its beat, makes the hands tremble, excites the nerves on edge, and causes shortness of breath and loss of sleep.

To counteract this demoralizing influence on the heart and nerves there is no remedy to equal Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

They make the heart beat strong and steady, restore tone and vigor to the nerves, and remove all the evil results caused by the tobacco. Mr. D. McKillop, Cosham, N.S., writes:—I was using too much tobacco, and got so I could not sleep at night, my hands used to tremble something awful, and I suffered terrible from pain in my heart. I told a friend about it, and he advised me to get your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took two boxes and they gave great satisfaction."

The retirement of Mr. H. B. Atkins, who has represented this constituency on the Liberal side of the Legislature for the last four years, was rather unlooked for by a large number of the electors of this constituency on the Liberal side as well as the U. F. A.

Mr. Atkins has been one of the independent members of the House, his stand on the pipe line bill and his well known temperance principles, which he did not fail to support in the Legislature, showing strongly that he would not support what he thought was wrong in spite of opposition from his own side of the House. He has perhaps made mistakes, he's human the same as the rest of us, but he at least had the courage of his convictions and was not afraid to back them up. We may not all agree with what he has done and what he has left undone but we must be honest with him and give him credit for the will to do his best for the whole of the constituency, which it is to be hoped we can expect from any man who is elected.

Didsbury Hospital Notes

Three major operations were performed in the Didsbury General Hospital in twenty-four hours on Monday. The patients operated on were Miss Dorothy Tuggle, Miss Delta Smiley and Mrs. Thos. Carlyn, of Cremona, all of whom are doing fine. Drs. Clarke and Evans, and Dr. Hartmann, of Oke, were the practitioners who successfully carried the operations through.

The Didsbury Hospital is fast becoming famous throughout a large district for the fine service it is rendering to the public and no doubt as time goes on it will be patronized more largely than ever.

World Events of Great Importance Pending.

The issues involved in the question of armaments as well as in the closely connected problems of the Pacific and the Far East can be settled by a full and frank consultation among the nations chiefly interested, that is by the method of free conference. Their belief is based on their experience with this method in the new world and they will unquestionably seek every means to ensure successful results from this momentous proposal made by the president of the United States in the name of his country."

While the conference in Washington is not likely to be held within a couple of months, the dominion premiers will probably out short their deliberations here and return home to prepare for it.

Discussion of the naval problem is now out of the question and it is not likely that anything of importance will be done in regard to constitutional changes. Indeed the view of one and all is that nothing the dominion premiers can now do can equal the magnitude of what has been achieved in making a disarmament conference possible and that therefore not much good can come from prolonging consideration of infinitely minor subjects. That, at all events, was the temper of the dominion statesmen this afternoon and a long speech by Premier Massey of New Zealand on a constitutional question received a most listless reception. Premier Meighen, the Canadian Press learns, will himself represent Canada at the Washington conference.

U. G. G. and Elevator Companies Win Case

WINNIPEG, July 11.—Ruling that the federal government has no power to investigate the grain business which, he holds, is private enterprise conducted for private profit or gain within the province, Mr. Justice Curran today made permanent the interim injunction granted three weeks ago against the royal grain commission. The interim injunction was granted by Mr. Justice Galt upon the application of the United Grain Growers, Ltd., and the Northwest Grain Dealers Association et al.

Invalidates Act

At the opening of the court, Mr. Justice Curran first dealt with the plaintiff's claim for a declaration invalidating the Canada Grain Act. The Canada Grain Act, he held, had been in effect in one form or another for 21 years without its validity being challenged and that fact alone would cause him serious consideration even if this issue were properly raised. The plaintiffs claimed that

Why Should The United Farmers of Alberta Oppose The Stewart Government?

Premier Stewart is one of the best farmers in the province.

The Provincial government has enacted more legislation in the interests of the farmers than any other government in Canada.

The platform of the U. F. A. is almost identically the platform of the Stewart government.

All classes and sections have received the utmost consideration at all times Premier Stewart and his cabinet.

The government have been progressive and business-like.

Critical times are ahead, and the government is prepared to cope with these problems in an experienced and careful manner.

Why, Then, Should Premier Stewart Be Opposed?

Remember what Hon. T. A. Crerar, national leader of the organized farmers, had to say when he addressed the U. F. A. convention in Edmonton, January 20th, 1921, as he reported in the press.

"Mr. Crerar pointed out that the business of government, he cared not whether it was a municipality, a province, or in the wider federal field, was a business that should engage the attention of every honest citizen, no matter what his calling or occupation might be, and consequently, that being the case, he for one was willing to take common ground with the other man, whatever his profession might be, so long as he believed in policies that he, the speaker, believed in, and he was willing to work for him for those ends."

"That does not mean that the position of your organization, or of any farmer's organization, is challenged," said Mr. Crerar. "It would be a thousand pities if we were to do anything in Canada today that could destroy the integrity and effectiveness of the farmers' organization. Your U. F. A., as your president has pointed out on many occasions, must continue its existence and life as a farmers' organization, built up as such, but let me say this—when you get into the wider field where you are dealing with matters of vital importance to all the people of the country, do not refuse the support and assistance of the man who is willing to work with you toward that end. You will fall in your final purpose if your motive is to seek power alone for the sake of power. It would be a fatal mistake if we became animated with the desire to acquire power in government merely for the sake of having it."

PROVINCE OF ALBERTA Co-operative Credit Societies

The Provincial Government has provided legislation designed to encourage the co-operation of farmers by adequate credit, longer term loans, lower interest rates, cash prices for purchases, saving of time and labor, and an improved community spirit.

Increased Farm Credit depends upon:

- (1) Greater reliability of loans.
- (2) Certainty of repayment.
- (3) Adequate powers of security.

The Alberta Co-operative Credit Act in its amended form, grants exceptional powers in the matter of taking necessary security, and thus repayment can be safely provided for.

Organization of a Society requires:

1. Fifteen signatures to petition to incorporate.

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED AND DESIRE FULLER INFORMATION COMMUNICATE WITH—

- II. Thirty members in good standing to start operations.

- III. Each member to subscribe for $100 stock on which he pays twenty per cent. in cash and twenty per cent. each year thereafter.

- IV. Affairs controlled by Board of Directors.

- V. Limited liability.

Young Mrs. Beecroft Had Miserable Time Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Hamilton, Ont.—"I have suffered for three years from a female trouble and consequent weakness, pain and irregularity which kept me in bed four or five days each month. I nearly went crazy with pains in my back, and for about a week at a time I could not do my work. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Hamilton Spectator and I used it. Now I have no pain and am quite regular unless I overwork or stay on my feet from early morning until late at night. I keep house and do all my own work without any trouble. STOMACH TROUBLE DUE TO THIN BLOOD

It Usually Disappears When the Blood is Made Rich and Red.

This blood is one of the most common causes of stomach trouble. It exists the digestion very quickly. The glands that furnish the digestive fluids are diminished in their activity, the stomach's muscles are weakened and there is a loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more quickly restore the appetite, digestion, and normal condition than good, rich, red blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles, and awakens to normal activity the glands that supply the digestive fluids. This is shown by an improved appetite, and soon the effect of these blood enriching pills is evident throughout the whole system. You find that what you eat does not distress you, and that you are vigorous instead of irritable and listless. If your appetite is tickle, if you have any of the distressing pains and symptoms of indigestion, you should at once take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Caused Disfigurement. Itchy and Burning. Had Restless Nights.

"My face came out in little pimples that were sore, and I scratched them constantly, and then they turned into scales, causing much disfigurement. The skin was so itchy that I irritated it by scratching. The burning was fierce, and I had many restless nights."

"This trouble lasted about a year before I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using three cakes of Soap and two boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) W. Byrns, St. Basile, Que., Nov. 23, 1918.

Make Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum your daily toilet preparations. Soap 25c, Ointment 25c and 50c. Sold throughout the Dominion. Canadian Depot: One Line St. Paul, St. Montreal. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

Pretender to Throne of Russia. Despite the overwhelming evidence that the life of the Czarevitch was not spared, a pretender to Russian authority has arisen and is likely some day to prove to be a thorn in the Soviet flesh.

As in other cases of lost nobility this false Alexis has not found any difficulty in rallying a certain number of peasants to his cause.

A report that two new butchers had come to town was circulated early on Tuesday morning. A representative of the Pioneer immediately got busy to find out the cause of such a sudden increase in the butchering line and found that because a little daughter had arrived at Norman Cook's home his friends had made it twin boys. Oh, well, congratulations anyway.
